Trial Trip of New Steamer, American Legion, July 8; Also Will Be Reunion of 300 Legionnaires

The occasion of the trial trip on July 8 of the new 21,000-ton steamer American Legion, which will operate between New York and South American ports, also will be a reunion of Legionnaires prominent at the Paris caucus. About three hundred officials of the organization will be passengers on the trip.

Legionnaires from every state have been invited to attend the sailing. Among them are John G. Emery, national commander, and Henry D. Lindsay, former national commander.

Among others invited are General John J. Pershing, Secretary of War, Weeks, Secretary of the Navy, Denby, Admiral Benson, chief of operations during the war; General Peyton C. March, chief of staff; the governors of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the ambassadors of Brazil and Argentina and United States Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey.

The "American Legion" is 535 feet over all, with a beam of 72 feet and a draft of 30 feet 6 inches. She will carry 250 first-class and 194 third-class passengers, with a crew of 198 officers and men.

Tiger Post 23, of the American Legion has formed a tennis team, and is desirous of arranging matches with other posts of the American Legion or similar organizations in and around the city.

Those interested should write to Tennis Manager, Tiger Post, 23, Box 23, City Hall Station, New York City.

The annual shore dinner of Colonel N. B. Thurston Post, 192, American Legion, was held Sunday at Tappan's, Sheepshead Bay. The next meeting of the post will be held at its headquarters, 56 West Sixty-sixth Street, at 8:30 o'clock on July 8.

Report of Seizure of Joyce Jewels Denied

Customs Officials Explain the Chicago Article Concerning Former Peggy Hopkins

Emphatic denial of a dispatch from Chicago saying that jewelry valued at $350,000 had been seized by customs officials from Mrs. Peggy Hopkins Joyce was made in this city yesterday by Charles H. Tuttle, of 34 Nassau Street, her legal representative.

Mr. Tuttle's denial later was corroborated by customs officials here, who said they had seized no such articles, but explained the report from Chicago by disclosing the seizure of "an article of adornment" from a passenger arriving from Europe, who said she had received the article from Mrs. Joyce.

"There is absolutely no basis of truth in the Chicago dispatch," Mr. Tuttle declared. "There has been no such seizure and there will be no such seizure. There are strong interests at work on the other side of this case, and this looks like another effort to discredit Mrs. Joyce and influence the court."

Men's Clothing to Return To 'Normalcy' Next Year

Designers at Rochester Convention Decree More Fullness of Figure in Spring Styles

ROCHESTER, June 29.—The men who dictate the style in men's clothing the International Association of Clothing Designers opened their twenty-third annual convention here today.

They will be in session the remainder of the week. Spring styles for 1922 are on exhibition, and these show the tendency to get back to "normalcy" in the cut of men's garments. The most noticeable tendency is toward more fullness of figure, replacing the supposedly "elegant" slenderness of the extreme military styles that followed the war and have prevailed since. The belted blouse, while not yet banished, is unquestionably losing favor and is slated for certain oblivion in the near future.

Likewise the pronounced incurve of the waist line accompanied by flaring coat skirts are doomed to extinction. Trousers, too, are to be reformed. Instead of clinging to the legs of the wearer they will be more comfortably voluminous and bowlegged men will once more have a chance, as will the "short stout," to whom the post-war styles have been one long torture.

Wife Says She Didn't Know of Separation Suit

Counsel for Sophie H. Spicer moved yesterday in the Supreme Court that the separation granted by default to her husband, Peter, of 307 East Tenth Street, be canceled on the ground that Mrs. Spicer didn't know anything about the suit. Counsel asked permission to file an answer to Mr. Spicer's action and to institute a counter suit for a separation. Justice Davis reserved decision.

Mrs. Spicer alleges that her husband abused her and ordered her out of the house. She has been married ten years, but has decided to give up matrimony and become a physician. She is a student at Flower Medical School and has her children with her, although the decision in her husband's suit was that they should be in his custody.

Her husband, Mrs. Spicer says, objected to an automobile trip she took with an old friend. The friend, she said, offered to take her children and him on the trip and she just went along because one of her children was not feeling well.

Germans on Trial for Order to Slay Wounded

LEIPSG, June 29.—Lieutenant General Karl Stenger, commander of the 53d German Infantry Brigade in 1914, and Major Bruno Crusius, an officer in his command, were placed on trial before the German Supreme Court here today as war criminals on charges brought by the French government.

The French charged, on accusations made by Major Crusius, that General Stenger ordered his troops to take no prisoners and to kill wounded men. They charged Major Crusius with transmitting the order. Crusius asserted in the trial to-day that General Stenger gave this order in the presence of all his chief officers, and that he, Crusius, transmitted the order to his fellow officers and subordinates.

General Stenger, in testifying, flatly denied that he had ordered defenseless prisoners killed. He said he had only taken measures to drive the French out of the woods. The General declared that his troops, while pursuing enemy forces, sometimes were fired upon from behind, probably by men who, it had been assumed, were dead. There was one instance, he said, where his men were fired upon from a machine gun hidden in a tree. He reiterated that he never gave the order regarding the killing of wounded, alleged to him, but said that when French wounded soldiers had fired on his troops from behind he had declared they must be finished.

Sheldon Whitehouse, councillor of the embassy, will be in charge in the interim before the arrival of Myron T. Herrick, the new Ambassador, who is expected July 14. Mr. Wallace is suffering from indigestion because of the great numbers of dinners and luncheons which have been given in his honor. Among engagements ahead of him is a luncheon Friday, tendered by the South American diplomats.
